JUDGE COFFIN'S FIRST CASE.

A Bluff That Was Called Down In a Most Humiliating Manner.

The following story is told of Timothy Coffin, who was for a long time judge of the New Bedford district: When a very young man, he was retained in a case of sufficient importance to bring out almost every resident of the town, so that the little New Bedford courthouse was packed when court was opened that morning. Coffin had been secured as counsel by the defendant. Although it was his first attempt in open court, he had made little or no preparation, thinking that he could get through somehow or other when the time came. Thus, when the counsel for the defendant came into court that morning, he was greatly surprised, and no less agitated, to see the big crowd and realize the wide public interest in the trial at hand. He saw that he had looked upon the case too lightly. The prosecution was strong, and he had made not even a slight preparation.

To lose the case meant the loss of a hoped-for reputation. Could he afford to commit this blunder by displaying his ignorance of the case? How could he get out of it? These were a few of the questions that are known to have flashed through the young lawyer's head, for afterward he himself told of the awful perplexity of the hour. Being a shrewd inventor, he devised a plan. As soon as the court had been called to order and the clerk had said his little say he arose and asked for a postponement of the trial, on the ground that he had just received a telegram announcing the sudden and fatal illness of his mother, who resided at Nantucket.

Scarcely had the words of this appeal proceeded from the lips of young Coffin, when an elderly woman quietly arose in the balcony of the courtroom and gave utterance to these words, "Timothy, Timothy, how many times have I chastised thee for lying?"

Timothy recognized the sound of that voice only too well. It was that of his mother. This being Timothy's first public case, the old lady had secretly come up to New Bedford to see how well her son would do. Her presence was of course totally unknown to him. The further developments need not be recorded here. Suffice it to say that Timothy Coffin in after years made sure that his excuses would not be thrown back at him by any member of his own family. —Boston Herald.

Profits In Champagne.

The returns are enormous when a brand of champagne is firmly established, but it is slow and laborious work to build up a demand for a new wine. Accident more often popularizes a brand than design. The sudden terrific rush for dry wines some 15 years ago was caused by a remark of the Prince of Wales, made casually in the course of an after dinner chat. It was immediately pounced upon by the manufacturers of dry wines, the world was informed of it and their success was assured. But it requires continual effort to maintain the popularity of a wine. There must be no flagging.

Brands that were in great demand a few years ago are now dropping out of sight. Only a few hundred cases are sold annually. Others have come to the front with remarkable strides, and their sales run up in the thousands. As many as 80,000 cases of a certain brand have been sold in this country in one year at a net profit to the agent of not less than $100,000. "Such a statement is enough to make a young man giddy." —New York Tribune.

Dress of Short Women.

Women who are short must avoid much trimming on their skirts, be they stout or slender, as they are shorter in proportion from the waist to the feet, writes Emma M. Hooper, in an article on "Gowns for the New Year," in the Ladies' Home Journal. For the same reason they must omit wearing large plaids and designs. All full portions of the waist must be moderate in size, as the sleeves, bertha, belt and vest. The short, wide revers now worn are becoming, also round waists and short, pointed bagues. Jacket fronts are in good taste, but the umbrella back bagues give a short figure a cut off appearance, as do tiny capes, while a close fitting jacket adds apparently several inches. Materials must be selected with a view to making the wearer look taller.

A Juvenile Pessimist.

Jeremiah, who is 12 years old, is already a confirmed pessimist. Among the things he continually grumbles about are his lead pencils, which never have points, and to sharpen which he always has to borrow a knife of some schoolmate.

"Why don't you have a knife of your own, Jerry?" one of the boys asked.

"Got no pockets to keep it in," said Jerry.

"Then why don't you have a pocket?"

"If I had one I'd have a hole in it."

"Well, even then you wouldn't be any worse off than you are now."

"H'm! Yes, I should. If I had a pocket hole in it I never'd have anything to lose through it."

Jerry sighed deeply and went on whittling his pencil with the dull blade of the other boy's knife. —Lewiston Journal.

Progressive Dinner Parties.

Progressive dinner parties are finding plenty of admirers in Boston. "If the girl you take in is slow, all you have to do is to take your wine glasses, your bread and your napkin and go to other fields. The worst of it is you can stay but one course when you strike the pretty and interesting girl," is the way one who has tried it puts the case. —Boston Record.

Unreasonable.

He (to the matrimonial agent)—I've married that rich lady you engaged for me, but she won't give me any money.

Matrimonial Agent—And what could you ask better? Not only have you a rich wife, but also a prudent one. —London Tit-Bits.

P. H. Dillard, the commonwealth's attorney of Franklin county, is in the city on legal business.

Capt. N. P. Ford left yesterday on the noon train for Martinsville to be absent several days on business.

Joseph Jacobs, of Winston, who has been visiting friends in the city for several days, returned to his home yesterday.

Miss Dais Hopkins, of Bedford City, who has been visiting her sister Mrs. W. H. Stanley, on Ninth avenue s. w., returned home yesterday.

Miss Marshall and Miss Gertrude Richardson, of Cloverdale, who have been visiting friends in the city, returned home on the noon train yesterday.

J. J. Quinn, of the maintenance of way department of the Norfolk and Western, who badly injured his ankle some time ago, is getting along finely, and will be able to resume his duties in a few days.

Rev. Dr. J. H. Roberts, of Pearisburg, is in town for a day or so, visiting his brother-in-law, Mr. B. M. Woods, on Albermarl street. The doctor's lecture on "Future and Eternal Punishment," has won him considerable fame throughout Southwest Virginia, where he has been heard.

The largest assortment of pianos and organs in all styles and finish ever exhibited in Roanoke is now displayed by Hobbie Music Co., 157 Salem avenue. Prices and terms right.

Dr. Potter's Second Lecture.

The second lecture of the World's Fair series of four, under the Young Men's Christian Association course, takes place at the Academy of Music to-night, when Dr. Potter will take his audience as one excursion party through the grounds and big paradises around the lagoons, etc., for a further inspection of the great sights and gigantic buildings. New delights and fresh surprises with illustrations in profession; none shown before will be presented; also what the States did, and how they did it; their buildings and their spirit of emulation and rivalry; fully eighty-six views will be seen in their superb grandeur, and fully described by that chieftain of entertainers, Dr. D. C. Potter. No person should remain away when the greatest international event of the century can be seen at so trifling a cost. The opportunity will never again be afforded you. For high artistic and educational value, these illustrated lectures are such as to commend them to everybody. To those who did not or could not visit the Chicago Exposition, they get it all here in detail, and the best of it; to those who did go there it is a great review. Secure your seats at Johnson & Johnson's, and thus help the Y. M. C. A. as well as secure tripple value for the small price expended. All persons are requested to be in their seats by 8:30 to-night.
